

World Book Day

Once upon a time, there was a school cook called Mrs Brown. She loved to cook for the children at her school and was really quite famous in the village for her delicious meals. Mrs Brown was very inventive and always liked to try new recipes but, sometimes, was a little bit forgetful!

One day, Mrs Brown arrived at her school kitchen and felt like she had forgotten something important but couldn't quite remember what it might be. She looked out of the kitchen window and watched the school gardener working busily in the school allotment digging up fresh potatoes and crunchy carrots.

Suddenly, Mrs Brown remembered...she hadn't ordered any ingredients for today's lunch. What was she going to do? How was she going to feed the hungry school children?

Finish the story below... (no more than 2 pages can be submitted)

Name _____

Age _____ School _____